The Project

The project was launched in 2016 by the Prime Minister Renzi with Minister Franceschini, in the presence of Chancellor Merkel and President Hollande.

In 2017, the "Istitutional Contract for Development" was signed, which provides for the "reuse of the entire complex for primarily cultural and higher education purposes". In January 2020, with the Presidential Decree appointing the Extraordinary Commissioner, the project was set in motion once again.

Vision and purposes

- Restore to collective memory the historical events and human experiences that have marked the 170 years of the Prison's life, highlighting topics such as the dignity of the person, human rights and freedom of thought, as well as the evolution of architecture, prison culture and the concept of punishment.
- Promote a "School of Higher Thoughts" (Eugenio Perucatti, former "enlightened" Director of the Prison) inspired by the values of the Italian and European Constitutions, for the future of Europe and the Mediterranean.
- Protecting and enhancing the cultural, natural landscape and environmental heritage in line with the European Green Deal.
- Promoting cultural and artistic production.

The rebirth

- 1987: the former prison is declared an asset of major historical interest
- 1997-99: the Marine Protected Area and the Ventotene and Santo Stefano Islands State Nature Reserve are established
- 2008: the island of Santo Stefano is declared National Monument
- 2016: the Government allocated 70 million euros for the restoration and recovery of the former prison
- 2017: signing of the Istitutional Contract for Development (CIS) by eight Administrations (state, regional, local) represented at the Permanent Institutional roundtable (TIP) and with Invitalia as the implementing entity
